div paintings by renaissance masters cranach dürer and holbein are among the highlights featured in the first comprehensive study of the largest collection of early german paintings in america div armor and weaponry were central to islamic culture not only as a means of conquest and the spread of the faith but also as symbols of status wealth and power the finest arms were made by master craftsmen working with the leading designers goldsmiths and jewelers whose work transformed utilitarian military equipment into courtly works of art this book reveals the diversity and artistic quality of one of the most important and encyclopedic collections of its kind in the west the metropolitan museum s holdings span ten centuries and include representative pieces from almost every islamic culture from spain to the caucasus the collection includes rare early works among them the oldest documented islamic sword and is rich in helmets and body armor decorated with calligraphy and arabesques that were worn in iran and anatolia in the late fifteenth century other masterpieces include a jeweled short sword yatagan with a blade of watered steel that comes from the court of süleyman the magnificent a seventeenth century gold inlaid armor associated with shah jahan and two gold inlaid flintlock firearms belonging to the guard of tipu sultan of mysore presenting 126 objects each handsomely photographed and richly documented with a detailed description and discussion of its technical historical and artistic importance this overview of the met s holdings is supplemented by an introductory essay on the formation of the collection and appendixes on iconography and on turkman style armor this book examines the little understood end of art theses of hegel nietzsche and danto the end of art claim is often associated with the end of a certain standard of taste or skill however at a deeper level it relates to a transformation in how we philosophically understand our relation to the world hegel nietzsche and danto each strive philosophically to overcome cartesian dualism redrawing the traditional lines between mind and matter hegel sees the overcoming of the material in the ideal nietzsche levels the two worlds into one and danto divides the world into representing and non representing material these attempts to overcome dualism necessitate notions of the self that differ significantly from traditional accounts the redrawn boundaries show that art and philosophy grasp essential but different aspects of human existence neither perspective however fully grasps the duality the appearance of art s end occurs when one aspect is given priority for hegel and danto it is the essentialist lens of philosophy and in nietzsche s case the transformative power of artistic creativity thus the book makes the case that the end of art claim is avoided if a theory of art links the internal practice of artistic creation to all of art s historical forms this work provides an overview of the progress that has characterized the field of research and policy in art education it profiles and integrates history policy learning curriculum and instruction assessment and competing perspectives
