a monumental work of history that reveals the ottoman dynasty s important role in the emergence of early modern europe the ottomans have long been viewed as despots who conquered through sheer military might and whose dynasty was peripheral to those of europe the last muslim conquest transforms our understanding of the ottoman empire showing how ottoman statecraft was far more pragmatic and sophisticated than previously acknowledged and how the ottoman dynasty was a crucial player in the power struggles of early modern europe in this panoramic and multifaceted book gábor Ágoston captures the grand sweep of ottoman history from the dynasty's stunning rise to power at the turn of the fourteenth century to the siege of vienna in 1683 which ended ottoman incursions into central europe he discusses how the ottoman wars of conquest gave rise to the imperial rivalry with the habsburgs and brings vividly to life the intrigues of sultans kings popes and spies Ágoston examines the subtler methods of ottoman conquest such as dynastic marriages and the incorporation of conquered peoples into the ottoman administration and argues that while the ottoman empire was shaped by turkish iranian and islamic influences it was also an integral part of europe and was in many ways a european empire rich in narrative detail the last muslim conquest looks at ottoman military capabilities frontier management law diplomacy and intelligence offering new perspectives on the gradual shift in power between the ottomans and their european rivals and reframing the old story of ottoman decline the first comprehensive investigation of premodern jewish travel writing about the islamic world reorienting the east explores the islamic world as it was encountered envisioned and elaborated by jewish travelers from the middle ages to the early modern period the first comprehensive investigation of jewish travel writing from this era this study engages with questions raised by postcolonial studies and contributes to the debate over the nature and history of orientalism as defined by edward said examining two dozen hebrew and judeo arabic travel accounts from the mid twelfth to the early sixteenth centuries martin jacobs asks whether jewish travelers shared western perceptions of the islamic world with their christian counterparts most jews who detailed their journeys during this period hailed from christian lands and many sailed to the eastern mediterranean aboard christian owned vessels yet jacobs finds that their descriptions of the near east subvert or reorient a decidedly christian vision of the region the accounts from the crusader era in particular are often critical of the christian church and present glowing portraits of muslim jewish relations by contrast some of the later travelers discussed in the book express condescending attitudes toward islam muslims and near eastern jews placing shifting perspectives on the muslim world in their historical social and literary contexts jacobs interprets these texts as mirrors of changing jewish self perceptions as he argues the travel accounts echo the various ways in which premodern jews negotiated their mingled identities which were neither exclusively western nor entirely eastern
